

Stonesfield Primary School
Learning together to achieve our best

I Didn't Know I'd Miss

I didn't know I'd miss –

Walking to school with my friends telling secrets to each other.

I didn't know I'd miss –

Seeing my teachers especially Mrs Merritt because I like the way she taught us.

I didn't know I'd miss –

Maths because it was easier at school and I could do the work super quick.

I miss challenging my friends.

I didn't know I'd miss –

Choosing a lunch partner to sit by, like Leo, and we could talk about Minecraft.

I didn't know I'd miss –

Ms Boulter's teriyaki chicken and sausages – they don't taste the same at home.

I didn't know I'd miss –

Breaktime with my friends when we play the Minecraft game.

By Daniel W

Stonesfield Primary School
Learning together to achieve our best

Immy's simile poem

As crazy as my room hit by a tornado,
As tall as a bolt of lightning,
As small as a green splinter,
As wide as a long endless prairie full of long grass,
As weird as a monkey killing a lion,
As soft as a big fluffy purple cloud,
As tough as a massive ball of rubber,
As red as blood electrocuted,
As blue as a piece of the sky with lots of blue paint,
As loud as 5000 people screaming like thunder,
As quiet as a tiny mouse making a den,
As hard as a 900 year old candy,
As hungry as a ghost that has not eaten for 468
years,
As thirsty as a desert that hasn't drunk for 745 years,
As recent as 0 seconds ago!

Stonesfield Primary School
Learning together to achieve our best

Mariella's simile poem

As naughty as a hyena chuckling,
As beautiful as the ocean roaring 'hi',
As wondrous as the dark sky at night,
As loud as a thunder storm at dusk,
As hungry as a humongous pregnant lion,
As crazy as a troll riding a huge giraffe,
As weird as a monkey snacking on a bird,
As interesting as a venus fly trap waving,
As scared as being eaten by a panther,
As delicate as a leaf skeleton on water,
As disapproving as a whale and its young,
As calm as the breeze on your face,
As tough as an elephant's skin,
As soft as a bunny's fur on your hand,
As small as a scorpion's tail.

Nicola's simile poem

As loud as a crowd cheering for the thunder to stop,
As crazy as my hair after waking up on a shipwreck,
As large as a woolly mammoth who has just eaten a giraffe,
As tall as a giraffe giving a giant a piggy-
back,
As hungry as a monster who has been fasting for a million years,
As scared as finding a troll standing right
over you,
As interesting as finding a dead insect that is transforming into a ghost,
As happy as earning money,
As soft as my purple blanket,
As tough as getting over a fear.